LDAP Address Book access from Microsoft Outlook Web Access 2007

MasterKeyPlus Web client enables LDAP or X.500 Address Book searches from Microsoft's Outlook Web Access (OWA) 2007 client by extending the standard OWA Address Book User Interface, this feature is not available out of the box. MasterKeyPlus Web client is a sister product to MasterKeyPlus, which also provides LDAP search and browser capabilities from the full Office Outlook desktop. Both MasterKey versions were developed for organisations with very large numbers of users and / or rich directory structures.

MasterKeyPlus Web client tightly integrates with the OWA address book such that it is a seamless and intuitive for the user. The only difference is the addition of a button on the new message compose screen that allows the user to invoke the MasterKeyPlus web address book. Beyond that the look and feel when searching is identical.

This tight integration extends to the “Check names” function where LDAP and X.500 directories are automatically included in the Check names search.

MasterKeyPlus Web client extends the standard OWA address book functionality still further by enabling a Windows Explorer browser style view of the LDAP directory (see Fig 1.)

The browser’s explorer style view (represented in Fig 1.) is designed to reflect a hierarchical directory structure, effectively conveying that information to the user. Users can browse through the directory expanding and collapsing folder lists and opening containers to find the right recipient(s).

Is it right for you?

Before considering MasterKeyPlus Web client, first examine directory synchronization between LDAP or X.500 and the Microsoft GAL. Synchronization mitigates the lack of LDAP support inside OWA as users can search the Global Address List and, as a result of synchronization, the LDAP or X.500 data too.

Product Benefits

- Seamless Integration with no user training required.
- Removes latency in directory synchronization by providing DIRECT access to corporate data.
- Significantly easier to access corporate white pages data when mobile.
- Low product TCO, single installation at the server level, zero client footprint.
