

Boldon James Demonstrates Secure Information Exchange Products at NATO Information Assurance Symposium

Boldon James underpins this year's ROI theme with its COTS solutions

Maidenhead, Berkshire, U.K. – 22nd September 2009

From 21st - 25th September, at Shape in Belgium, delegates visiting the NATO Information Assurance Symposium will have an opportunity to see demonstrations of Boldon James' interoperable secure information exchange solutions, which are suitable for all NATO personnel and departments regardless of their security clearance, roles and location.

“As the IA industry faces the challenge of a fundamental shift away the traditional ‘Need-to-Know’ culture to one of ‘Need-to-Share’ or ‘Responsibility to Provide’, events such as the NATO Information Assurance Symposium are key in bringing together industry and NATO” commented Richard Shine, Regional Sales Director at Boldon James. Shine continues “Boldon James’ approach to using COTS products to address these needs was well received by the many delegates attending and fitted well with this year’s theme of ‘Return on Investment for IA’”
